Agile Systems Expands Distribution into the United Kingdom

August 2, 2005

Waterloo, ON - Agile Systems today announced an agreement with LG Motion to expand its distribution into the United Kingdom. "This is an exciting day for Agile Systems" states Ralph Steedman, President and CEO, "coming shortly after closing a round of financing, this is a major step in the globalization of our world-class products. By being global, and local at the same time we can closely offer the partnerships with customers that are required in today's business environment." Both companies have a common core value system that centers on servicing the needs of their customers. "By working closely with our customers, we are able to help them achieve their goals. Agile Systems adds the strength and continual innovation needed to provide motion solutions for the professional within the scientific and industrial automation markets." Remarkd Gary Livingstone, President of LG Motion.

LG Motion will market Agile Systems' line of intelligent power modules used by OEM machinery manufacturers to control demanding single and multi-axis motion required in their instruments and machines.
